HOSPITAL FIRE IMPERILS 20 BABIES LIVES

Telephone Operator Warns
Nurses After Explosion
At Own Risk.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 18.—(INS)—Lives of hundreds of bed-ridden patients, including 20 babies only a few days old, were endangered today when an explosion and fire wrecked the X-Ray laboratory of the University of California hospital here.

A short circuit in the electric wiring leading to the X-Ray apparatus was believed responsible for the fire, which caused damage estimated at $75,000.

A telephone operator, Juanita Costenbolder, discovered the fire, when an explosion of X-Ray films shook the part of the building in which she was working.

Sticking to her post, although conscious of the danger which surrounded her, the girl telephoned to all parts of the hospital to warn the nurses and resident physicians, and finally jumped to the ground from a third story window when the flames crept up around her.

Her ankle was badly sprained when she struck the ground, but she was treated in the hospital, and returned later to her switchboard.

Removal of patients was carried out swiftly, more than a hundred nurses assisting in the evacuation under the direction of the hospital doctors, including Harold F. Muller, former All-American football player, and now a physician.

The babies, including three incubator cases, were removed to the children's hospital, a mile away and apparently suffered no ill effects. Special food required by each baby was also taken by the nurses so that the feeding schedule of the infants would not be disrupted.

WORK RAPIDLY ON HOSPITAL

Roof In Front Completed,
Plasterers To Start Work
This Week.

Circleville's new City hospital in N. Pickaway-st. is rapidly being erected and within a few days it is expected plasterers will be started to work in the interior.

Filler is being put in the floors, and the roof on the front end of the building has been completed.

The hospital, up on the hill in Pickaway-st., will make a fine appearance when it is finished and will be one of the prettiest hospitals in this section of the state.

On a bank in the outskirts of the city, in the most peaceful and quiet end of town the hospital already is a thing of beauty.

It is expected the exterior of the building will be completed about Jan. 1, and when that has been finished work on the decorations inside will be started.

CLEVELAND TO SEE AND HEAR LEWIS

"Is Everybody Happy" in Cleveland? They should be, for not only is Ted Lewis talking and singing picture, by that name showing at The Palace in Cleveland but Ted himself is appearing with his band on the stage.

Ted didn't know that his picture was booked to be shown there this week, so for once the patrons should see and hear enough of Ted Lewis America's Jazz King. The Lewises called his mother Mrs. B. Friedman Sunday night and told of the queer quirk of fate that placed Ted on the same program with his recently completed talkie.

Mrs. Lewis will be in Circleville Tuesday or Wednesday for a visit with her mother-in-law.

There is a veritable colony of Circleville folks now living in Cleveland, who will attend the show.

16 KILLED AS MEXICO HOLDS ITS ELECTION

Pascual Rubio Given 800,000
Majority Over Jose
Vasconcelos.

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 18.—As the smoke of battle cleared from Mexico's presidential election today, a check-up showed that the choice of Pascual Ortiz Rubio as this nation's chief executive took a toll of sixteen dead and more than 100 wounded, many of them seriously.

Bloody clashes took place in various cities of the country as more than 1,000,000 voters went to the polls to choose between Rubio, representative of the National Revolutionary party, and Jose Vasconcelos, candidate on the Anti-Electionist party.

Rubio was elected by a majority exceeding 800,000, said to be the largest majority ever piled up by a presidential candidate in this country. He will serve the unexpired term of four years, nine months and 23 days of the late President-elect General Alvarez Obregon, shot to death by an assassin.

No confirmation was obtainable today for the report Vasconcelos planned to stage a revolution if he was defeated at the polls. While conceding his rival's election, Vasconcelos declared that widespread intimidation had prevented his supporters from going to the polls to register their choice.

The toll of dead in Mexico City was ten, while 50 were wounded in the various clashes. Four were killed and 30 wounded at Vera Cruz, while two met death and 24 were injured at Tampico.

Rubio, former minister of communications, has held many important governmental posts. He was at one time Ambassador to Brazil, and served as Governor of the State of Michoacan and Director-general of the national railways.

GERMANY VOTES BERLIN, Nov. 18.—Disorders occurred throughout Germany today as the nation went to the polls in provincial and municipal elections.

The Socialists held their own in Berlin, while the middle and Bourgeois parties lost with the exception of the National Peoples' Party of the late foreign minister. Dr. Gustav Stresemann.

Heir to Millions Finds Happiness with Mother's Chambermaid

Once more it has been demonstrated that heart and mind, despite materialistic findings, can win happiness through following the dictates of the God of Love. A few days ago, the social world was startled by the marriage of William Willock, Jr. (left), heir to millions and his mother's chambermaid. The upper picture shows the humble dwelling where the youthful heir brought his Norwegian bride. At the right is a facsimile of the license to wed which was filed in Brooklyn, N. Y. The lower picture shows the mansion of his father, where the young man first met his twenty-year-old Norwegian bride.

Gets Gas, Asks For Oil, Then Drives Away

Here's a warning to gasoline station operators.

A man in a Buick touring car pulled up to a station on Cedar Hill, Fairfield-co., Sunday and after having ten gallons of gasoline put in the tank, told the proprietor he wanted a quart of oil.

When the attendant went inside the station, the driver drove away and down the road. There was no automobile to chase him, and no telephone at the station to call authorities. The man drove down the Ringgold-pk toward Circleville.

O'CONNOR DIES OF POISONING

All Britain Mourns Death of Father of House of Commons.

LONDON, Nov. 18.—All Britain was plunged into sorrow today by the death of its most beloved patriarch—T. P. O'Connor—who succumbed this morning of septic poisoning at the age of 81.

O'Connor, known throughout the world as "Tay Pay" and equally renowned as parliamentarian and journalist, had been seriously ill but ten days.

O'Connor's long-possessed and dearly cherished title of "Father of the House of Commons" now descends to David Lloyd George, Britain's wartime premier, who has represented his constituency for 39 years. "Tay Pay" had represented the Scotland division of Liverpool for 41 years.

Few there were in England today who remembered O'Connor's real name of Thomas Power O'Connor, so indelibly had the nickname "Tay Pay" been written.

O'Connor was born in Athlone, Ireland, on Oct. 3, 1848. His parents were poor but he managed to obtain a college degree and soon launched himself into journalism. He often told how he landed in London with $20 in his pocket, and how after weeks of tramping he was able to find a post as a reporter on the Daily Telegraph.

O'Connor's period of journalism ended with publication of his biography of Disraeli. The success of this work served to launch him into politics and he was elected a parliamentary member in 1891.

O'Connor made seven trips to the United States during his life, the last trip being in 1928. His career was marked with the parliamentary life of Britain during almost the last half century.

Mrs. G. C. Pickens spent the week-end with her brother, Monte Beavers at the Y. M. C. A. in Newark.

SLENDER THREAD HOLDS LIFE OF JAMES G. GOOD

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18.—(INS)—Secretary of War James W. Good's life was hanging by the slenderest of threads at noon today.

The physicians about the bedside expected it to snap at any time. They did not believe early this morning he could survive more than a few hours, but at noon he was still living. Even the doctors were surprised at the grim battle the patient was putting up.

They were a unit, however, in declaring that it was a losing fight. The septic poisoning throughout the system was slowly having its way.

Administration of oxygen alone kept Secretary of War James W. Good alive through last night. This morning, he was barely conscious, and the physicians treating him awaited the end at any moment despite the heroic measures to which they had resorted.

The 63-year-old cabinet officer had expended all of his reserve strength during the last 24 hours in a vain effort to rally from the many complications that have set in since his operation last Wednesday for appendicitis, and the blood poisoning that has overrun his system seemed to have the upper hand.

No formal bulletin on the war secretary's condition has been issued since five o'clock yesterday afternoon. The doctors confined all their efforts to retaining that one flickering spark of life. The last official word said merely that Good was making "a valiant fight. His age, however, weighed in the balance against him."

The immediate family—Mrs. Good and her two sons—maintained a despairing vigil through the night. They had been told that death was only a matter of hours.

C. C. Chappelle, 112 W. High-st. Republican state senator from the 11th District embracing Franklin and Pickaway counties, serving his third term as senator, announced Monday that he will resign his office to become Chief Examiner of the Building and Loan Department of the State of Ohio with offices in the Wyandotte building, Columbus.

Mr. Chappelle, former publisher of the Circleville Union-Herald, an attorney at law, and postmaster has been recognized as one of the pillars of the Republican party in Central Ohio.

He was reelected in 1928 gathering 1350 more votes than his colleague, Paul M. Herbert, and 1800 more than the two Democratic candidates for State Senator.

His term would have expired Jan. 1, 1931, which makes it necessary that a senator be named to finish his unexpired term.

Mr. Chappelle has already begun his new duties.

WORK OF GRID CRITICS TURNS TOWARD MYTHICAL SELECTIONS

Ohio Conference and Buckeye A. A. Boast Many Stars With Jobs of Choosing Best Extremely Difficult—Big Bill Edwards of Wittenberg Appears Certain For the Pivot Job.

By JACK VINCENT COLUMBUS, Nov. 18.—As the 1929 football season draws to an end, interest is being centered upon the mythical all-Ohio teams which will be chosen by the various sport critics.

There is no Albie Booth, "Red" Cagle, All Masters or any other such a figure galloping his way to fame on Ohio's gridirons.

Selection of the all-Ohio eleven is going to be a tough job and there will probably be the usual number of kicks when the team shall have been completed.

There are many players sporting their moleskin wares who deserve honorable mention.

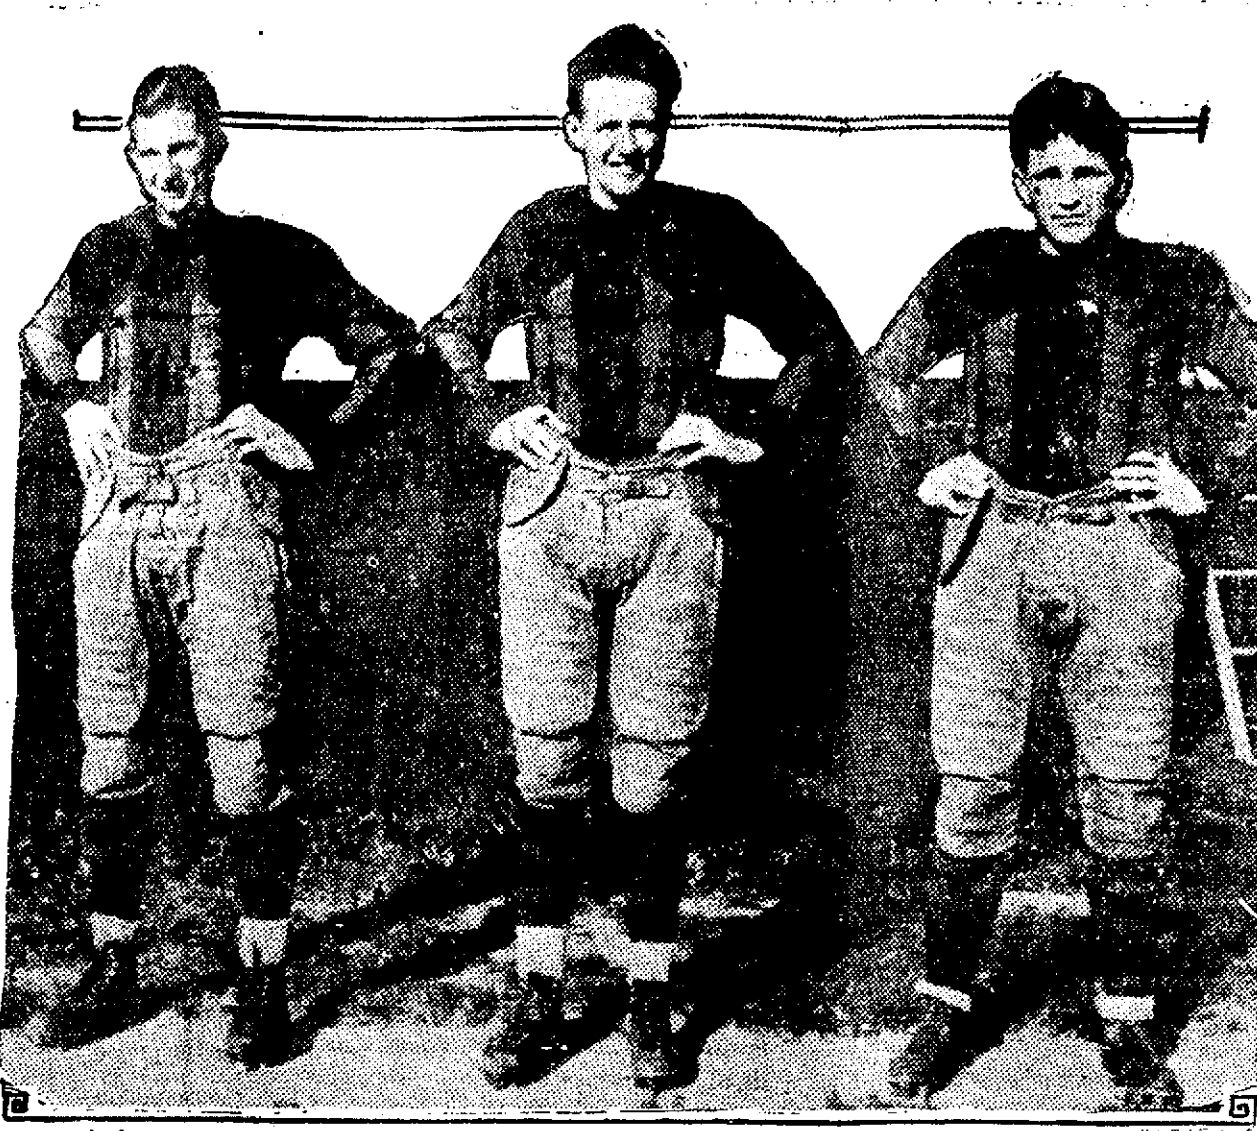

Ohio University, which has the only undefeated and untied pigskin outfit in the state, should be allowed a man, or perhaps two, on the mythical squad. Perhaps, it wouldn't be a mistake to lift the entire team into the all-Ohio berth. But, that would smack too much of partiality and the scribe might be accused of being an Athens alumnus.

There are a number of choices for fullback. Plummer, of Wittenberg, Runyan, of Wooster, and McEwen, of Muskingum, are among these. Plummer's name appears most because of his defensive power, and he's no slouch in bucking the line either. Runyan is second in the individual scoring race. The Wooster gridder has all of the makings of an all-Ohio. McEwen, who is known on the new Concord campus as "Curly," is also a rampaging fullback. McEwen and Runyan will face each other in the Wooster-Muskingum game Saturday.

NOVOTNY HIGH

The halfback berths will be just as difficult to award. Ray Novotny, of Ashland, who heads the list of Buckeye state individual scorers, should be given very creditable mention. He is a great broken-field runner and Ashland's forward passing attack centers around him. Hart,

MAKING GOOD AT LAKE FOREST ACADEMY

MILLARD DRAUDT JACK BALES HERB KULL

Jack Foster Bales, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Bales, 147 E. Main-st., is rated as one of the outstanding stars in athletics at Lake Forest Academy, Illinois, where he is captain of the 1929 football team and also of the basketball team for this coming season.

While in school here Bales was a football letter man in 1927 and 1928, and was captain of the 1927-28 court squad.

He was a letter man in both football and basketball in 1928, and was the mainstay of both teams. This year his field generalship and all-around ability aided largely in his team's 45 to 0 victory over the Notre Dame "B" team.

In the picture with him are Millard Draudt and Herb Full, two Columbus lads who are also members of the squad.

ATLANTA AND NEW HOLLAND SPLIT

Knocking the Magazines

Aldous Huxley, novelist and short story writer, said on his last visit to New York:

"A magazine must come down to the popular taste, or else it must go up. That's why most magazines accept the worst and reject the best."

"A talented author recently wrote a short story."

"There," he said to his wife, after he finished reading it out loud to her. "There, that's the best thing I've ever done. It's equal to Poe or Ambrose Bierce."

"Yes, darling, it is," his wife agreed. "And now I'll go and make out a list of the 12 likeliest magazines for you to submit it to first."

BEGIN TRIAL OF M'MANUS

Many Sensations Promised During Long Rothstein Murder Case.

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—The famous old criminal courts building, so significantly handcuffed to the Tombs by the "Bridge of Sighs," was to be the theater today of what promises to be an absorbing drama of the underworld. It is the trial of George A. McManus for the murder of Arnold Rothstein, nationally known Broadway gambler and "man of mystery."

Rothstein was "rubbed out" very unceremoniously and very mysteriously on the night of Nov. 4, 1928. He was summoned by telephone to room 34 of the Park Central Hotel. There, half a dozen men with whom he had previously gambled for high stakes, had assembled. Some one "plugged" him with a bullet from a .38 caliber revolver. He died without revealing the name of his assailant.

Today, as the state of New York prepared to bring McManus, a race track bookmaker, to trial for the killing, the courthouse was electric with rumors of possible sensations and of last minute moves of the prosecution. District Attorney Joab H. Banton was said to have rounded up several "surprise" witnesses, one of whom is reported to be Mrs. M. A. Putnam, of Asheville, N. C., proprietress of a tea room. It is understood she occupied room 320 at the Park Central on the night of the tragedy. This

SURPRISE WITNESS

Mrs. Putnam is said to have been in conference with assistant district attorneys here during the last few days. What evidence she will give, if any, will not be known until the trial gets into the realm of testimony.

Room 349 was McManus' room. If, as rumor has it, Mrs. Putnam heard the shot and saw a man fitting Rothstein's description tottering from the room with his hands pressed to his side, she will be indeed a vital witness. The district attorney has indicated he will seek to show that the shooting occurred in, or just outside, room 349. Rothstein was found staggering into the chilly, wind-swept night three floors below—near the servant's entrance.

At least two other women are expected to be important witnesses. They are Mrs. Ruth

HEALTHY AND HAPPY AT YEARS OF AGE

Sixty-five Years of Suffering Ended By Spinago; Circleville Civil War Veteran Sings Its Praises.

Rheumatism, indigestion, and kidney troubles kept me in misery a great deal of the time ever since the close of the Civil war—for about sixty-five years I don't mean that I was confined to bed all that time, but I do say that intermittent troubles and relapses came over me at intervals during that time. During the past few years these ailments became much worse and the attacks more frequent. Gas formed on my stomach, my bowels were out of order and my system filled up with poisons and waste matter which caused me to experience a tired worn-out feeling all the time.

Kidney troubles and rheumatism kept me in constant pain. Hope waned daily as one medicine after another failed to bring me relief and I was on the point of giving up."

MR. GRABILL

Mr. Isaac Grabill, 90 years old, Civil war veteran who has resided for many years near Circleville on R. R. No. 6. All his troubles were before Mr. Grabill heard of Spinago. After he was introduced to this master medicine, the story is entirely different, as he goes on to say.

"But Spinago changed all this. Gone is my indigestion and kidney trouble. My rheumatism has disappeared completely and with it the pains. My life and energy has returned and I feel better than I have felt since the close of the Civil war. All thanks to Spinago for this wonderful change in me."

Spinago is sold and guaranteed in Circleville at The Mykrantz Pharmacy, 107 U. Court-st., where many call daily to learn more about this super tonic. Spinago is also sold at all other good drug stores in this vicinity.

Are you prepared to render first aid and quick comfort the moment your youngster has an upset of any sort? Could you do the right thing—immediately—though the emergency came without warning—perhaps tonight? Castoria is a mother's standby at such times. There is nothing like it in emergencies, and nothing better for everyday use. For a sudden attack of colic, or the gentle relief of constipation; to allay a feverish condition, or to soothe a fretful baby that can't sleep. This pure vegetable preparation is always ready to ease an ailing youngster. It is just as

MR. W. L. WHITE.

"My stomach was in such a disordered condition that food simply refused to digest, but always caused intense suffering," said Mr. W. L. White, Logan, Ohio. "Quantities of gas formed that bloated me up and caused smothering spells. My heart palpitated until I thought I had heart trouble. All during the day I was subject to headaches and dizzy spells. The rheumatism settled in my legs and arms.

"But Konjola ended all this suffering. I did not take a great deal to make the improvement in my health. First of all it regulated my bowels and gave me free movement every day. Then my stomach began functioning as it should. The gas bloating and smothering spells are ended. Headaches and dizzy spells are gone. Konjola also banished the rheumatic pains and now I am feeling fine. It is a pleasure to recommend and endorse such a medicine as Konjola and I know others will benefit from it as I did."

Konjola is sold in Circleville at Hamilton & Ryan drug store and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section—Adv.

Fear that what is known as "The Apple Creek Decision" may upset the financial apple cart of the administration of Gov. M. Y. Cooper spread among state officials this week. Disastrous consequences, in the form of curtailment of expenditures, interference with pet projects and court findings that the Cooper legislature violated the constitution and bungled its job in passing appropriation legislation, may follow in the opinion of some legal experts.

The situation is seen as one loaded with dynamite by capital observers. Needed to touch it off is a suit by any interested taxpayer. If such a prankster comes forward and is sustained in court the financial program of the administration may be wrecked.

Previous legislatures authorized appropriations for specific purposes.

The Cooper legislature authorized lump sum appropriations in general language. These gave wide discretion to tax-spending officials without requirement that taxpayers' money be spent in accordance with a specific appropriation.

The Ohio constitution provides: "No money shall be drawn from the treasury except in pursuance of a specific appropriation made by law."

A suit decided a few days ago was brought by W. S. Pealer, prominent Columbus lawyer, on behalf of a taxpayer, to enjoin a contract of the institution for Feeble-Minded at Apple Creek, in Wayne-co. In it the constitutionality of the appropriation was questioned. The court decided that in this particular case the requirement as to "specific" purposes had been met because the appropriation was continuing legislation, having been passed by the 1927 legislature and re-enacted by the 1928 legislature.

Raising of the point, however, filled legal representatives of the administration with alarm. Ad. although it could not be tested in the Apple Creek suit, it is conceded by legal authorities that the way has been paved for a general attack on the appropriation acts of the Cooper legislature with complete annulment as a possibility. It was freely predicted that any taxpayer inquisitive enough to file a suit will create a panic that will make Wall Street's worst experience seem like a merry picnic.

Cure Worse Than the Bite

Crossing the English channel was a worse business in early days than now. This is how our ancestors sought to evade unpleasant effects:

Take one ounce of sirup of clove gillyflowers, one drachm of confectio alchermes, one ounce and a half of borragh water and the like of mint-water, one ounce of mountain water and as much cinnamon water, temper all these together in a cordial and take a spoonful at a time when at sea.

EVERY MAN FOR HIMSELF

"The Masked Hostess"

by BLAIR STEVENSON

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Nathalie Van Slaick summoned from Europe by the death of her father, "Happy" Jack Van Slaick, wealthy sportsman and society leader, learns from her lawyers that the fortune has been wiped out. Only $28, and an old abandoned estate, "The Firs," have been left to her. John Sloan, young attorney, is assigned to handle her affairs. Nathalie, with only youth, beauty and social position is further discouraged when her wealthy aunt, Mrs. Pemberton Swayne, coldly turns her away from her regal Southampton mansion. Nathalie in desperation cashes a check for $500, at the Waldorf Hotel where her family name is still accepted as the symbol of untold millions. Sloan, unknown to Nathalie, makes good this false check. On a second trip to Southampton, Nathalie is startled when a strange, swarthy man calls for her. Fearing the police, she flees the house. After boarding a train she leaves it hastily at a small station when she learns the mysterious man is aboard. Finding herself in Brookville, she visits Treadwell Pound, bank president, who holds the mortgage on "The Firs." Pound secretly desires the estate knowing the new state road will enhance its value considerably. He proposes that she act as hostess to a rich South American who wishes to take over "The Firs" and entertain his wealthy friends. In need of money, Nathalie agrees on one condition, that her identity must be hidden by a mask that she will wear. After telephoning, Pound tells her the condition is accepted. She then calls John Sloan.

CHAPTER IX
"HOW do you do, Mr. Sloan," said Nathalie as she heard the click of his telephone instrument and recognized his voice at the other end of the wire. "This is Miss Van Slaick. I am speaking from Brookville where I have just had an interview with Mr. Pound of the bank. He has made me a proposal which I wish to talk to you about and I am calling to ask if you could make it convenient to see me tonight."

"Certainly," said Sloan, while he mentally cancelled another engagement for the evening, to which he had been somewhat eagerly looking forward. "Shall I come to Brookville or—"

"No please," Nathalie interrupted. "I am leaving for New York at once. If you think well of the plan of which I wish to talk to you I will have some shopping to do in the city tomorrow. I was thinking," she hesitated, "that we might dine together."

Sloan laughed delightedly. "So was I, Miss Van Slaick."

"I am not exactly dressed for dinner," Nathalie interrupted again. "So if you know some quiet little place—"

Sloan knew one and gave its street and number and said he would be at its entrance door at seven o'clock and wait there till she appeared.

Because she feared that the train gates at Pennsylvania Station might still be under surveillance by the detectives who, she was convinced, were trying to catch up with her, Nathalie engaged an automobile to take her to New York. The ride to the city was particularly pleasant and the chauffeur skillful. By the time she reached the restaurant which Sloan had appointed as the place of their rendezvous she had lost much of the nervousness which had harassed her for three days. It was a robust and lovely girl who stepped from the door where she had been waiting, and they were introduced to the lady who had entered the highly lighted restaurant and walked to the table he had reserved.

As he sat in his mind, from the moment when he heard her name, Sloan was a man who had been waiting for a woman like Nathalie. He was a man who had been waiting for a woman like Nathalie. He was a man who had been waiting for a woman like Nathalie.

"I have just had an interview with Mr. Pound at the bank," she said. "He has made me a proposal which I wish to talk to you about and I am calling to ask if you could make it convenient to see me tonight."

"I have just had an interview with Mr. Pound at the bank," she said.

"I think not," answered Sloan. "I have been waiting for a woman like Nathalie. He was a man who had been waiting for a woman like Nathalie. He was a man who had been waiting for a woman like Nathalie."

"Take Only Food Your Body Needs, Don't Be Tempted to Overeat at Sight of Attractive Dishes," Is Health Philosophy of Athlete.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M.D.

United States Senator from New York.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

YOU may know "Ty" Cobb as a baseball player. I know him as a philosopher, a thinker.

The other day we were talking together about how and what to eat. There is so much time to be filled in on shipboard that an interesting companion is a godsend. "Ty" is one such. We talked about everything, but this particular conversation was confined to the appealing subject of food.

"The trouble with us," said Mr. Cobb, "is that we eat with our eyes. We sit down at the table and look over the attractive things displayed there. Then we decide we will have a little of this and out a lot of that. Whatever pleases the eye soon gets into the stomach. Instead of taking what is good for us and what our stomachs need, we take what appeals to our sight. We eat with our eyes."

"Ty" has made a great record as a professional ball player. He is noted for clean living, clean sportsmanship, clean work.

In this sport, as in all others requiring perfect poise of body and mind, habits of living are all important. There cannot be balance of muscle and certainty of correct nerve response, unless the health and vigor are perfect.

On this account, it is always profitable to inquire what successful athletes do to keep fit. We may not be able to imitate them and it is not essential that we should in all things. But from their lives we may gather much of everyday value.

I was interested to hear that in twenty-two years Cobb has not eaten a single mid-day meal. Two meals a day are his limit. And at that the evening meal may consist of nothing but a few juicy apples.

The fact is, the average man eats too much. I am always telling you that. But unless we keep it at the public won't appreciate how much better it is for health to be temperate in eating.

These terrible, health-destroying habits of "reducing" represent the other extreme, the dangerous extreme. The body must have certain quantities of food. Without the essential supply there is sure to be trouble.

But overeating is worse. If anything can be worse. If you would be temperate in eating, you would be able to eat anything you want. When we eat for the body's sake we will live longer and enjoy life the more.

THEATRES

Packed houses attended each performance at Circleville's three theatres Sunday.

The Cliftona with Mary Pickford and Douglas Fairbanks in their first co-starring film, Shakespeare's "Taming of the Shrew," was packed to the doors both afternoon and evening.

This picture is one of the best of the 1929 releases.

At the Metropolitan, Mr. Hatchcr has devised a big time advertisement for his picture, "Why Bring That Up?" starring the Two Black Crows, Moran and Mack. He has improvised a loud speaker in the front of the theatre which emits the talking of the show just as it goes along. Good crowds attended both afternoon and Sunday performances there also.

AT THE CLIFTONA

Advice to wives: If you want to know how to handle your husbands, see "Taming of the Shrew."

Advice to husbands: If you want to know how to handle your wives see "Taming of the Shrew."

For crammed to the brim with good—or not so good—matrimonial panaceas is the glorious comedy of William Shakespeare's which is at the Cliftona theatre Monday and Tuesday for a run of two days. And, also, it is the vehicle which brings Mary Pickford and Douglas Fairbanks to the screen for the first time as co-stars.

"Taming of the Shrew" is the story of Katherine (Miss Pickford) the most spiteful girl in Padua, and with a temper that would make Vesuvius seem docile as a lamb. Petruchio (Douglas Fairbanks) undertakes to tame her, the first step in his contemplated plan being marriage, followed by a routine identical in method to the one utilized by the storming Kate. All of which gives rise to a series of situations which make "Taming of the Shrew" one grand laugh from beginning to end. Included are may bits of advice which may—or may not—be adopted by husbands ad wives on their erring spouses.

AT THE MET

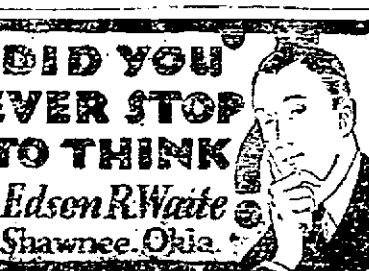

Charles Mack, the lazy voiced member of the team of Moran and Mack, the Two Black Crows, has studied the negroes for material for his phonograph records, radio sketches, books and now for their first motion picture, "Why Bring That Up?"

"A negro of the old south," I find, has only two moods—he is very happy or very despondent. And superstitions cause the most sadness."

Mr. Mack described the making of a "luck bag" to ward off all charms. "Take the wing of a jay-bird, jaw of a squirrel and the fang of a rattlesnake, reduce them to ashes on the top of a hot stove. Mix with these, dust from a graveyard, three hairs from the head of the person who is to be protected, and finally add some blood from a pig. Make all this into a ball, sew in linen and then in red flannel. Then soak the ball in camphor or alcohol and wear around the neck both day and night."

Neither Moran or Mack, the Two Black Crows, believe in these superstitions, altho they introduce many of them into their first motion picture "Why Bring That Up?"

"I have just had an interview with Mr. Pound at the bank," she said.

"I think not," answered Sloan. "I have been waiting for a woman like Nathalie. He was a man who had been waiting for a woman like Nathalie. He was a man who had been waiting for a woman like Nathalie."

"I have just had an interview with Mr. Pound at the bank," she said. "He has made me a proposal which I wish to talk to you about and I am calling to ask if you could make it convenient to see me tonight."

"Certainly," said Sloan, while he mentally cancelled another engagement for the evening, to which he had been somewhat eagerly looking forward. "Shall I come to Brookville or—"

"No please," Nathalie interrupted. "I am leaving for New York at once. If you think well of the plan of which I wish to talk to you I will have some shopping to do in the city tomorrow. I was thinking," she hesitated, "that we might dine together."

Sloan laughed delightedly. "So was I, Miss Van Slaick."

"I am not exactly dressed for dinner," Nathalie interrupted again. "So if you know some quiet little place—"

Sloan knew one and gave its street and number and said he would be at its entrance door at seven o'clock and wait there till she appeared.

Because she feared that the train gates at Pennsylvania Station might still be under surveillance by the detectives who, she was convinced, were trying to catch up with her, Nathalie engaged an automobile to take her to New York. The ride to the city was particularly pleasant and the chauffeur skillful. By the time she reached the restaurant which Sloan had appointed as the place of their rendezvous she had lost much of the nervousness which had harassed her for three days. It was a robust and lovely girl who stepped from the door where she had been waiting, and they were introduced to the lady who had entered the highly lighted restaurant and walked to the table he had reserved.

As he sat in his mind, from the moment when he heard her name, Sloan was a man who had been waiting for a woman like Nathalie. He was a man who had been waiting for a woman like Nathalie. He was a man who had been waiting for a woman like Nathalie.

"I have just had an interview with Mr. Pound at the bank," she said. "He has made me a proposal which I wish to talk to you about and I am calling to ask if you could make it convenient to see me tonight."

AT THE GRAND

The younger generation comes into its own in "Words and Music," all talking, singing, dancing Fox Movietone musical revue which will be heard and seen at the Grand theatre Monday.

Principals, bit players and chorists—all are either in their teens or early twenties, and the dash and enthusiasm which they put in their performance proves they are the types best adapted for this style of audible screen performance.

David Percy, whose baritone voice and all around ability won him high praise when he made his screen debut in the "Fox Movie-tone Follies of 1929," plays the leading role opposite Lois Moran, Percy, in "Words and Music" is a Phil Denning, collegian and embryonic song writer, ad Lois' chief suitor in the romantic story of campus life.

Miss Moran is leading lady, playing the role of Mary Brown, belle of Darnell college. She sings, talks and dances, revealing talents which will be a pleasing surprise to film fans who have seen her only in dramatic productions.

Indians' Basket Granary

Bagpipes in History

That bagpipes did not originate in Scotland is revealed in an article in Time, the News magazine. "The bagpipe has a place in Gene sis," says Time. "In Egypt it was called the asit and was piped ceremonially. In Rome it was called tibia utricularis. Colleges were formed for its instruction. Nero piped. Invading Romans took it to Britain. Early Britons named it the choros. Itinerant pipers carried it farther into the Highlands and Iceland. The weird Asiatic music appealed to Celtic and Gaelic imaginations and stuck with them." According to Time, both Marie Antoinette and Henry VIII piped while Schubert and Handel wrote pieces for it. King George greatly enjoys the music of his royal piper as did Queen Victoria.

Don't Wait 'Til They Get Wet

School children don't tell you when their shoe soles are thin and rain means wet feet and perhaps sickness. Check up on their shoes tonight and bring them to us for repair.

"THAT LITTLE GAME"

Inter-nat'l Cartoon Co., N.Y.—By B. Link

NO, I NEVER PLAYED "RED DOG." HOW IS IT PLAYED?

OH, IT'S WONDERFUL! EVERYBODY GETS FOUR CARDS AND THEN OH, ALICE, THAT'S A NIFTY HAT YOU'RE WEARING, IS IT NEW? WHERE DID YOU GET IT? HOW MUCH WAS IT?

I'M GOING TO PLAY AT ADAMS TONIGHT. I'M ALWAYS LUCKY AT THEIR HOUSE, SO I'LL BE BREAKING OUT IN A NEW DRESS IN A FEW DAYS. OH BOY! STUD WITH THE DEUCES WILD IS MY GRAY.

MY HUSBAND DETESTS "DEUCES WILD." THE MERE MENTION OF IT MAKES HIM BOIL, SO I SUGGEST PLAYING IT EVERY TIME WE HAVE A GAME SO THE GUESTS CAN SEE HIM GET SORE. HE'S A SCREAM.

MY BREAD AND BUTTER CAME HOME MINUS HIS WATCH AND COFF LINKS. IT'S A GOOD THING I KNOW HOW TO PLAY OR WE WOULDN'T OWN A CLOTHESPIN.

It was sales day in a large department store. A very busy wrapper girl was trying to attend to many things at once when a clerk rushed over and said: "Call a messenger, sweetheart."
